FEATURES

- 20 Brian Ransom's Interdisciplinary Art
by Mark Cervenka and G. Yvonne Kendall
The ceramic artist creates "sound sculptures" with his art works and other elements such as water and, especially, wind.
- 26 Cross-Cultural Music: Japanese Flutes and their Influence on Western Flute Music
by Akiko Shimada
The popularity of cross-cultural flute music, especially that borrowing from Japanese forms, is growing among Western classical music composers and performers.
- 32 Maturing Flutists: Problems & Solutions
by Stephen A. Mitchell, MD
The "wearing effects of time," as the author diplomatically defines our inevitable age-related deteriorations, are no laughing matter. But advice from a physician specializing in performance health care can help—especially when flavored with the sage words of long-lived comedians.
